2011 Caine	(25 years)	200,000
	(169 ½ years)	$1,600,000

GRAND TOTAL, CITY, COUNTY AND STATE: $ 97,475,489⁵

⁴ The Illinois Court of Claims Act, which was amended several years ago, provides that those exonerated prisoners who establish their innocence by an innocence pardon or a certificate of innocence are entitled to $199,150 if they serve more than 14 years, which all of these men did. The statute also provides for a yearly cost of living increase, so in all probability most of these men received somewhat more than the $200,000 credited to each of them. These numbers do not reflect the millions of dollars that the state spent housing these innocent men for a total of 170 years.

⁵ The Federal Government, according to the public information officer of the U.S Attorneys' Office, does not keep records by case or investigation, and therefore does not have any figures as to how much the Burge investigation and prosecution, and the subsequent investigation of other Area 2 and Area 3 officers, cost the Department of Justice, the FBI and the United States Attorneys Office.
